Final Pitch Competition

BUILD is dedicated to creating a more diverse future workforce by ensuring students in under-resourced communities have access to the mentorship, professional development opportunities, and funding they need to graduate high school, go to college, and launch successful careers. Starting in 9th grade, BUILD students work with their peers and mentors to develop business ideas, pitch to funders for seed funding, and launch real businesses. BUILD's unique "Shark Tank"-style program offers students a four year entrepreneurship experience designed to develop 21st Century Skills and motivate disengaged youth to succeed in school.

The BUILDfest Pitch Challenge (BPC) is a multi-part event that represents the culmination of a year of hard work by our ninth-grade students and celebrates the transformative power of entrepreneurship.

Here's How It Works...

Starting in early May, more than thirty teams of BUILD high school students representing six Boston Public Schools will pitch their innovative business ideas to volunteer judges in hopes of earning a final slot at The BUILDfest Pitch Challenge on June 11th. Only three teams will make it all the way. These finalists will compete in front of a panel of celebrity judges and 700 guests for cash prizes and start-up funds. Past judges include ABC Shark Tank's Kevin O'Leary, former Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick, and former New England Patriots Linebacker Jerod Mayo. This event will also feature a family-friendly reception and Student Business Expo where guests will have the opportunity to meet BUILD's student entrepreneurs and purchase their unique products. The BUILDfest Pitch Challenge is a great way to see our students in action while networking with Boston's top business, education, philanthropic, and community leaders.
